New Yorkers Will Be Deprived of Boxing in Two Weeks.

Osciyright, 1917, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World.) WO weeks more, and then, for the first time since the Frawley Law went into effect, New Yorkers will be deprived of their favorite sport.

In spite of the months that have passed since the Governor's private fight on boxing resulted in the repeal of the Frawley Law, the end of boxing is going to come to hundreds of thousands of people in this State with a distinct shock. There always has been a hope that "something would be done" to let boxing go right on. It seemed impossible that any legislative seemed impossion that any registarive body could assassinate a sport in which millions of people are inter-ested, at a time when that sport is recognized as of immense importance to the training and preparation of our military forces.

military forces.

However, boxing is temporarily going out of existence, and we might as well recognize that fact. No matter how foolish it may have been to kill boxing at this time, and no matter how unjust to ignore the wishes of a great majority of New York citizens, talking about it is not going to put the Frawley Law back. The thing to do is for all men interested in boxing as a sport and as a very necessary part of military preparation to fight for it in the voting booth and in the for it in the voting booth and in the Legislature. A little of the persistency and dogged courage of the boxer, appiled by the boxing fans, will bring boxing in again, and under better con-ditions than before.

HERE will be a few good shows here before the greatest of indoor sports temporarily retires from the stage. Johnny Dundee and Jimmy Duffy fight ten rounds at the · Pioneer to-night.

To-morrow night at the Manhattan five topnotchers will go on in six-round bouts—a unique card. It might be better if the five champions and near-champions were matched against tougher rivals, but at that there should be some action.
